S.O.C. food drive underway in Bay

Save Our Children Inc. is conducting a food drive to collect non-perishable food items to be given to the local food pantry in Bay St. Louis. The staff and board are requesting that people drop food off at the S. O. C. Center located at 405 Nacaise Ave. in Bay St. Louis any time Monday through Thursday between the hours of 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Donations will also be accepted at the residence of board Chairwoman Geraldine Lang, 550 State Street. Pick-ups can also be arranged by calling 466-0401 or 467-9586.

Bay High School Touchdown Club

The Bay High School Touchdown Club is conducting a sale for advertisements for its home game programs.

Anyone interested in purchasing an ad may call Chris at 467-7716 or Pat at 463-1532.

Club members will meet Tuesday, Aug. 16, at 6 p.m. at the Field House behind the school.

Watch out for 'school' scam

Dr. Kim Stasny, superintendent for the Bay St. Louis-Waveland school district said yesterday that one or more youths have been attempting to scam money by claiming to be doing fundraising for a school drug-prevention project. Neither the Bay-Waveland nor Hancock County districts are conducting any such fundraiser, Stasny said.

Audit opinion for Pass a 'first'

Expenditures down, balance up

BY ED LEPOMA
Possibly for the first time in Pass Christian history, the independent external auditors for the city have issued an "unqualified audit opinion." City Comptroller Tammy DiLorenzo said auditors also removed last year's qualification on fixed assets after $3.4 million in fixed assets were added to the city's balance sheet following an inventory of all equipment.

The city contracted this year with the firm of Wright, Ward, Hatten and Guel of Fulport to conduct the annual audit.

DiLorenzo said, "there were no reportable findings of material weaknesses in internal control."

Some of the findings of note included:

* The city's annual cash balance of $2.3 million increased by about $600,000 from the previous year, and all monies were fully collateralized by the banks.

* The ending unreserved fund balance of $1.4 million is equal to 39 percent of the general fund budget, which equates to about four and a half months of emergency funding that is available.

* The city's general fund expenditures were $350,000 less than budgeted expenditures.

* The net assessed valuation for the city was in excess of $34,950,000, an increase of about $300,000 from the year before, which equates to $2.3 million in property tax revenue.

* The millage rate decreased by one mill from 1998 to 1999, which is equal to about $35,000 in property taxes.

* The city's long-term debt continues to decrease with the Emergency response is quick

BY ED LEPOMA
American Medical Response, which responds to routine and emergency calls for help throughout Hancock County, is meeting mandates to react quickly to 911 calls.

Chris Vickery, representing AMR, appeared before the Hancock County Board of Supervisors last week and provided them with a report that shows AMR reacts faster than the mandated 10 minutes or less to calls for help from Bay St. Louis and Waveland and quicker than the mandated 20 minutes or less to calls coming from the unincorporated areas of Hancock County.

Vickery gave supervisors a breakdown of responses year-to-date, based on statistics through the end of June this year.

In Bay St. Louis, AMR answered 1,031 calls for help so far this year, and the average response time was 4.9 minutes.

Thirty years after Camille

BY ED LEPOMA
Pass Christian plans services at the west Municipal Harbor and at War Memorial park on Tuesday, Aug. 17, to mark the 30th anniversary of Hurricane Camille.

The public is invited to attend both ceremonies.

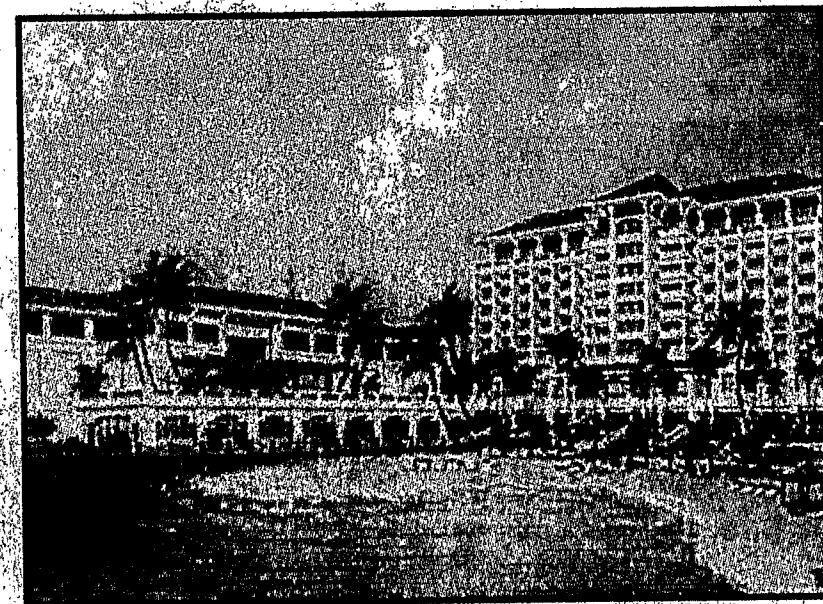

Mayor Billy McDonald will throw a remembrance wreath into the water from the municipal pier jutting out from the west harbor parking lot.

Prayers will be offered by clergy members in memory of the 78 residents who lost their lives in Camille.

A follow-up observance is planned at 11:30 a.m. at War Memorial Park on Scenic Drive where members of the VFW Post 5931 will place a wreath at the storm memorial, which

Phoenix Leisure set to build 'Margarita Hotel and Casino' at Bayou Caddy spot

Phoenix Leisure has temporarily named its proposed riverboat casino/luxury hotel complex "Margarita Hotel and Casino."

BY ED LEPOMA
The temporary name of a new casino coming into Hancock County is the Margarita Hotel and Casino, but there will still be a public contest to name the project.

Peter LaFemina, a spokesman for Phoenix Leisure Corp., which will develop the site, said officials had to select a temporary name in order to publish its intent to apply for a gambling license in the state of Mississippi.

He said the company still intends to have a contest, asking the public to submit names for the new venture.

In late June, Phoenix Leisure bought the 245-foot riverboat Northern Belle for $2.2 million, and the vessel is on its way from Ontario, Canada, and is expected to reach Bayou Caddy by the end of this month.

The ship has 23,000 square feet of gaming space, which will accommodate 828 slot machines and 38 table games.

It will be able to hold about 1,500 passengers.

However, LaFemina said the gambling barge will not open for business until a 200-room hotel is completed on the site.

Other improvements will include a new sand beach on the 30-acre site, a specialty restaurant and a party patio for live entertainment.

LaFemina said the company envisions an initial investment

Hancock County road projects inconvenient, but are necessary

BY ED LEPOMA
Cecilia Howe, one of the Echo's advertising account executives, couldn't get out of her house in Waveland on election day last week.

She called the office to explain. "My street's being paved as we speak, and I can't get out."

Howe is one of many Hancock County residents who did not mind the minor inconvenience. She has lived on Marcus Ave. for three years.

It doglegs to a dead end off Central Ave., and for years the county has graded it and scraped out the ditches

In heavy rains and flooding, the red clay road turned into a slipping and sliding course and sometimes trapped her inside her house.

Howe waited for three hours inside the house for the work crews to finish paving her short street.

"I didn't mind," she said. "I waited so long for it, I was excited that it was being done."

Hancock County's Board of Supervisors authorized a $5 million bond issue in 1997, and Stockstill Inc. of Picayune won a $4.1 million contract to pave, overlay and improve approximately 126 miles of roads in Hancock County. Supervisors also allocated a portion to mostly overlay streets in Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

County engineer Larry Seal said the gigantic road improvement project is nearing completion, and he provided the Echo with a listing of projects already completed.

By far, the most costly project so far has been the overlaying of more than five miles of Leetown Road. In most sections, the two-lane road was widened to 18 feet. Dangerous curves were also widened and

Mississippi "Gift of Life" Quilt to honor organ donors & transplant recipients

A statewide, handmade tribute is in progress! A quilt with squares designed and constructed by Mississippians will honor the gift of life made possible through organ and tissue donation and transplantation. Families of organ and tissue donors, as well as recipients of organ and tissue transplants are encouraged to participate in the quilt project called, "Mississippi's Gift of Life Quilt."

"We are hoping the squares will come from a variety of sources," said Charlotte Mullinnix, Community Education Manager for the Mississippi Organ Recovery Agency. "We encourage anyone to submit a quilt square in memory of an organ donor and/or tissue donor who has given the gift of life. Transplant recipients can submit quilt squares in honor of their donor and in appreciation of the opportunity for a new and healthier life."

The idea came about last spring after the National Kidney Foundation's "National Donor Quilt" toured through Mississippi. Local donor families and transplant recipients were extremely impressed with the loving tributes featured on the quilt squares. Their inspiration was the catalyst for a similar, local project focusing on Mississippians who live and give.

"As a transplant recipient, I was so moved by the quilt," said lung transplant recipient Mary Vinson of Tupelo, "I wanted to make a square and dedicate it to my organ donor. Even though I know so little about my donor, I think of them every day. I think of the family that gave a tremendous gift at such a traumatic time."

Donor family and transplant recipient support groups throughout the state have embraced the quilt project with the encouragement and backing of the Mississippi Organ Recovery Agency (MORA), the state's federally designated organ procurement agency. The Second Chance Donor/Transplant Support Group of North Mississippi is in charge of piecing the quilt squares together. The group hopes to have enough submitted squares in hand by September 1, 1999 to start piecing the quilt together. Upon completion, the "Gift of Life Quilt" will be used throughout the state to promote awareness of organ and tissue donation.

For more information on the quilt project, call the Mississippi Organ Recovery Agency at 1-800-690-8878 to request an instruction packet on "Mississippi's Gift of Life Quilt."

Multiple Sclerosis Society to donate books to libraries

The Mississippi Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society announced an "Educational Resource Development" project funded by the Swalm Foundation.

1997, a survey of Mississippi libraries was conducted by the Mississippi Chapter that showed a majority of the libraries had out-of-date or no books about multiple sclerosis in their collection.

"For local residents in many of the small rural towns, the local library is a main source of acquiring information. It is our concern that when a person is diagnosed with MS, they will go to the local library in search of answers and will find no information or an out-dated resource."

"Since there have been recent significant changes in multiple sclerosis information and research, the goal and mission of the program is to provide updated information and resources to all Mississippi public libraries statewide," said Philip K. Messner, Mississippi chapter president.

The chapter believes that by providing all public libraries in Mississippi with a variety of updated material on MS, a dramatic difference will be made for many people with MS, their families and friends and anyone else seeking information about the disease.

The grant for the Educational Resource Development project is made in honor of Dr. Donald W. Zacharias, Grisham Library director and president of Mississippi State University from 1985-1998. The books to be distributed are:

- Multiple Sclerosis: A Guide for the Newly Diagnosed, Nancy Holland, T. Jock Murray and Stephen Reingold.

- Multiple Sclerosis: A Guide for Families, Rosalind C. Kalb.

- Living with Multiple Sclerosis: A Wellness Approach, George H. Kraft and Marci Catanzaro.

- Therapeutic Claims in Multiple Sclerosis: A Guide to Treatments, William A. Sibley, MD

Each of these books will be presented to the 247 Mississippi public libraries by staff and/or volunteers of the Mississippi Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

NMSS is dedicated to ending the devastating effects of multiple sclerosis. NMSS accomplishes its mission through funding research; providing programs and services for people with MS and their families; educating the public about MS and its effects; and advocating for changes in public policy.

For information, call the Mississippi Chapter, 1-800-FIGHT-MS or (601) 856-7575.

Second Saturday Artwalk is Aug. 14, 4-9 p.m. in Bay

Each month from April through September, Old Town turns into one big block party with live entertainment and special activities.

More than 40 participating galleries, shops and restaurants will stay open late to accommodate strolling shoppers and visitors.

Galleries will feature openings and artists receptions, while restaurants will offer "Second Saturday Specials" from their varied menus.

Each section of Old Town will be highlighted by different "Hot Spots," special events which generally begin in the late afternoon. This month's Hot Spots include:

From 5-8 p.m., come celebrate "A Second Saturday for Kids." All ages are invited to participate in an interactive art project using watercolor and printing techniques.

Artist Paula Leoni will work with everyone to create finished works, with reasonably priced framing available.

Bluewater Beads, 209 1/2 Main Street, 463-1866

This unique shop features great beads, findings and beading supplies and samples of finished projects.

Catch the beading fever at the demonstration "How to make Earrings" from 6-8 p.m. Meet the teachers of upcoming workshops and sign up for classes to make your own gorgeous jewelry.

"Jeanne's" Bay Emporium, 104 North Beach Boulevard, 467-7080

An artists' reception will feature three regional artists this month at Bay Emporium.

Painter Willard Harrell, sculptor Bill LeBlanc, and jeweler Susan Esau will exhibit recent works in watercolor, limited edition prints, copper, brass and bronze sculpture, and jewelry in gold, silver and pewter.

Peoples Bank will again sponsor live music in Old Town. The rhythm and blues band, "Bo and Dee" return by popular demand to perform this month in the 200 block of Main Street.

The block party will continue from 6-9 p.m. with plenty of music and dancing in the streets.

Peoples Bank has supported Second Saturdays in Old Town by providing corporate sponsorship of entertainment for Second Saturdays for the 1999 season.

For information about Second Saturday, contact the galleries listed or Ellis Anderson at 228-467-7279 or Vicki Niolet at 228-467-8318.

Institute for Disability Studies receives grant

The Institute for Disability Services at the University of Southern Mississippi has received a grant of $150,000 for a program aimed at providing transportation for disabled people living in rural areas.

Funded by the Easter Seals, the project — which is called "Filling the Gap" — will develop a handbook and public service announcements to help rural transportation providers recruit drivers for disabled customers, said project coordinator Alma Ellis.

"There might be someone who is retired who has the time to provide transportation to the disabled lady who lives down the road," Ellis said.

As part of the project, a handbook explaining transportation options will also be created for disabled persons, Ellis said.

The 18-month project, submitted under the Easter Seals Project ACTION category of Focusing Transit Outreach to Underserved and Underserved Portions of the Disability Communities, is a collaborative effort with the Mississippi Center for Technology Transfer at Jackson State University.

A Message from Don Watson

I would like to sincerely thank all of the people that voted for me during the primary for sheriff of Hancock County.

When I decided to run for sheriff it was for ONE reason. I felt that my 25 years of Full Time law enforcement made me well qualified. If I had been elected, Hancock County would have had an experienced police officer as sheriff.

Now that I am no longer a candidate, I am PROUD to support the only other qualified FULL TIME law enforcement officer in our race, our present sheriff:

RONNIE PETERSON

Having been in law enforcement for as long as I have, I know the importance of having an experienced person in charge; therefore, I ask my friends and supporters to vote for:

SHERIFF RONNIE PETERSON

Thank you,

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Once again it is time for the annual Krewe of Nereids Fish Fry & Dance benefit.

The ladies of Nereids have given the call, and their husbands have heard them and are making final preparations for the Fish Fry Saturday, 4:30 to 7 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road, Bay St. Louis.

Tickets are for a $6.50 donation per person and take-outs are available.

I have eaten many of the fish fry dinners from Nereids over the years, and folks, the husbands prepare about the best I have eaten. I guess the ladies have given their husbands good training.

The evening will close with the annual dance from 8 p.m. to midnight, and those tickets are $12.50 per person.

One must remember, this is a Mardi Gras krewe, and the ladies have been bringing Mardi Gras to the Bay-Waveland area for 33 years.

The multi-talented krewe members will provide a rollicking Mardi Gras tableau, which is really something for one who has never witnessed such an event.

In addition, throughout the evening there will be a unique silent and live auction, also a $1,000 raffle.

The band will be Distinctive Attitude from New Orleans for the dance, known for playing some of the most popular music from the sixties to the present.

The ladies of Nereids work very hard throughout the year to bring our community one of the best Mardi Gras parades on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and the Fish Fry & Dance is their big fund raiser.

We can all help by supporting them at the fish fry, dance, or both.

Tickets are available from Krewe members and will also be at the door.

We hope to see you at the Nereids event on Saturday.

Do not forget the American Cancer Society's Relay For Life Friday night from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. at the Hancock County Walking Track in front of Hancock Medical Center.

Many teams have formed for this big event, and it is hoped there will be a large number who attend the event to raise money to fight cancer through research.

The evening will have many events of interest. Stop by and see for yourself.

Q Is there a prohibition against hiring and expending for extra road workers in a year in which a general primary election is held for the election of members of the State Highway Commission and the board of supervisors?

A Yes. The board of supervisors may not hire during the months of May, June, July and August of a year in which such a general primary election is held more than the average number of road workers for the same four months of the three previous years or expend on road labor more than the average expense for road labor for the same four months of the three previous years ($23-15-881)

Q Is there a limitation of budgeted expenditures during the last year of the term of office of a supervisor?

A Yes. During the months of October, November and December of the last year of a supervisor's term of office, budgeted expenditures for road and bridge construction, maintenance and equipment may not exceed one-fourth of the published budget, except in cases of emergency. Purchases made under §§1-7-13 are exempted from this section. (§19-11-27)

Partners for Stennis urge support to stop NASA cutbacks

Dear Friends,

I am writing on behalf of Partners for Stennis, a cooperative advocacy organization composed of Mississippi and Louisiana business and community leaders formed to promote the activities and agencies resident at the NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center (SSC).

As you may have already learned through the news media, the U.S. House of Representatives' subcommittee has voted to cut $1,325 billion from the NASA Fiscal 2000 budget request.

The cut, called "devastating" by Dan Golding, NASA administrator, represents an 11 percent reduction from the already lean NASA budget.

If carried through, the severe slash in NASA's operating funding would prompt the closing of at least two NASA centers and drastic reductions in NASA's workforce and its programs.

Closer to home, Stennis Space Center Director Roy Estess said the cuts would be the loss of several hundred jobs, the possible elimination of Earth Sciences and Commercial Remote Sensing programs, and major cutbacks in the areas of Space Shuttle support at the Mississippi space center.

Estess said if the Congress allowed the cuts to go forward, the action would also mean that all Advanced Propulsion Development work would stop.

The Stennis Space Center has an economic impact of $366 million within a 50-mile radius of the Mississippi center and a $561 million overall impact with over 4,200 employees living in the states of Mississippi and Louisiana.

This proposed cutback would mean an immediate economic disaster with long-range implications on future technological development that has been moving in a positive direction in recent years.

Partners for Stennis urges you to join its efforts to stop these NASA cutbacks from going any further by contacting members of our Congressional delegation, state and local officials and other people who may be able to influence the members of Congress.

We have all worked too hard to promote the success of the Stennis Space Center to have its progress halted at a time when our economy is at a 30-year high.

Sadly, our children and grandchildren will be hurt more than anyone else if these unnecessary and seemingly senseless cuts are allowed to go forward. Please take action immediately.

Sincerely,
Dr. Martin Berry, Chairman
Partners for Stennis

Quality of school lunches questioned

Dear Editor,

Friday was the first day of school at Hancock Elementary. It was a happy day for some parents and a sad one for other parents.

My grandson was very excited about being back to school, but the sad part came when I asked what he had for lunch.

Can you imagine my surprise to find out he had a grilled cheese, turnip greens, apple sauce and milk?

I asked the cafeteria workers to be sure, and they said that the children had a choice of a plain, and I say a plain, hot dog and bun (no chili) or grilled cheese.

Can someone please tell me where are the days of red beans and rice, sausage, coleslaw and cornbread and milk?

I wish that every parent out there would ask why our children have to pay for these so-called cutbacks or made-up budgets that don't work. Why are our cafeteria workers told they have to cut back or be in the red before December? At what price, our children's?

What if the only hot lunch some of these children get is at school? Wake up, parents and ask questions. I am.

Sincerely,
Adell Ladner

Citizens have voiced their opinion on dump

Dear Editor:

It is almost beyond reason to have people wishing to bring a new business into Hancock County seek to block, by means of court action, a referendum designed to show community support or non-support of their intention to build a Universal Garbage Dump (UGD) in NASA's Test Site.

Concerned groups of persons not in favor of the project have already banded together, put forward a petition for voluntary signature and identification by local residents having similar bent (including myself), and presented the results of their labors to the Board of Supervisors.

The garnered signatures against the project far exceeded anybody's dreams and should have proven sufficient deterrent to the project's promoters.

Instead however, this same bunch of UGC's (Universal Garbage Collectors) presses forward in their obsessive demand, calling for all of Hancock County to "roll over before them and play dead"

Much is being said about county residents receiving free garbage pickup for the next few years in return for privileges, but little is being said about the detailed, overall dollar numbers involved.

Neither do we hear of the speed and methodology of garbage disposal treatment intended at the proposed dump nor, except for vague references to agencies of one type or another, whose members probably live elsewhere, the exact policing and public input/response routines to be exercised.

Unless we are much mistaken, this county has already paid and is still paying, a multitude of people in one capacity or another, elected, appointed, or contracted, to provide its residents with satisfactory garbage disposal on a continuing basis.

It maybe high time we seek court action to have those people return this money, en toto or in part, or immediately provide the county with the local garbage disposal solution for which we have already paid.

Resident responds to merchant whining about numbers change

Dear Editor:

It's my turn to express how "horrified" I was to read the reactions of those whining and complaining about the city-wide renumbering plan.

I cannot believe that I live in a community where we have certain individuals who are this selfish and would actually place "a price on life." If the so-called "old town charm of a three-digit number" is more appealing than the thought of having someone's life by having to change to a four-digit number, I can have no respect for such a business owner or a resident.

None of those who are complaining can even begin to comprehend the feeling that our police officers, fire department, Fire and Rescue, or EMS personnel endure when they are dispatched via 911 to the home of a victim who is in desperate need of emergency assistance.

The sinking feeling in the pit of the stomach emerges when these emergency personnel arrive and that house is not located where it's supposed to be. The minutes that begin to tick away in trying to locate that home to assist or possibly save the life of that victim or family member is where the word "horrifying" should even begin to be used. Seconds ticking away mean the difference of life and death.

The value of life is certainly more important and should outweigh the word "expense or old town charm." The proper usage and organization of that 911 system, and if it includes renumbering, it should override anyone's complaints or whining.

Yes, some may endure expensive changes because of this plan, but in the long run it will pay off. If these certain individuals would only stop and use the common sense of the issue they would agree. Sadly enough, some of you will be upset because of the change that will have to be made to your driver's license. Granted, some of you will even miss that old town charm of the three-digit numbering system. But address numbers don't change the existing area charm, it's just numbers.

I believe it's a change well worth the effort. I stand behind and support any of the City Council members who are pushing for the betterment of my family's well-being and the renumbering plan.

All of us will endure this adjustment and we should all pull together to make it a successful accomplishment, not find ways to undermine it or hinder our emergency personnel. It's called progress, folks. Joining up with America in this century is a step in the right direction, one that my family and I will be proud to be a part of and see happen in our community.

Our elderly residents, a family with a child choking to death, a homeowner being burglarized, a business owner with an injured customer all depend upon that 911 system. The list is obviously endless. Don't place a price on life when it could one day possibly be your own or someone you love.

Sincerely,
Patti Hannah

TV violence and kids: solutions begin at home, Ole Miss professor says

Juvenile crime is down. So are teen pregnancy and teen smoking. In fact, a recent government report suggests that life is improving for America's children in almost every statistical measure of health, education and family resources.

So why aren't parents celebrating? Probably because the numbers are still disturbingly high. And, in the wake of Littleton, Pearl and other schoolhouse massacres around the country, a sense of helplessness continues to mount.

But parents aren't helpless, says Dr. Fanny Love, a University of Mississippi professor who has conducted extensive research on media violence and its impact on children. No one has more influence over a child's life than Mom and Dad. The key is to make productive — and positive — use of it.

"It all begins in the home," said Love, a professor and acting chair of the Ole Miss School of Education's Department of Curriculum and Instruction. "As parents and educators, we don't listen to our children enough. We don't take time to sit down and converse with them; therefore, they look for that attention somewhere else."

In many households, the television set has become a surrogate parent. From video games with violent themes to Marilyn Manson and Walker, Texas Ranger, today's youth are bombarded by messages of dubious moral value draped in raid-fire, eye-catching imagery and slickly packaged for profit.

Even commercials for products like soft drinks and tennis shoes often convey a sense of rage and menace, featuring famous athletes who snarl and growl like wild animals and shake their fists at the camera.

"We learn to be violent," Love said. "We are not born violent. It's a learned behavior whether through exposure to media violence, violent role models or violence in the home."

Numerous studies have linked TV violence to aggressive behavior in young people, Love said. According to the American Psychological Association, TV violence desensitizes children to the pain and suffering of others and makes them more fearful and more likely to behave aggressively toward others.

In a study of 100 preschoolers conducted by Dr. George Gerbner of the University of Pennsylvania, children who watched violent cartoons were more likely to strike out at playmates, argue and disobey authority than those who watched non-violent cartoons.

Studies by Gerbner also have shown that children's TV programs contain about 20 violent acts each hour and that children who watch a lot of television are more likely to think that the world is a mean and dangerous place.

And a University of Illinois study found that children who watched many hours of TV violence during elementary school grew up to be unusually aggressive teenagers.

Sometimes it's the parents who inadvertently teach children to settle conflicts through violence. "Corporal punishment is an example," Love said. "Corporal punishment sends the wrong message. It says that violence will solve the problem."

In some cases, parents overtly encourage kids' violent tendencies. "If a child has conflicts at school, some parents encourage that child to physically attack the offender. It becomes a vicious cycle," Love said.

"Children do not instinctively know how to handle conflicts when they surface. So they emulate what they've seen others do on TV or at home. They think the easiest solution is to hit or kick or bite because that's what they've observed in other aspects of their lives."

So how to children "unlearn" violence? Dr. Love offers a few suggestions to parents:

• Be a role model.

Since children learn by example, parental behavior is just as important as the child's behavior. Values of respect for others, honesty and pride in one's family and heritage can be sources of strength for children in the face of negative peer pressure and social conflict.

• Make rules and stick to them.

Children need a structured environment with clear expectations for their behavior. Set specific rules and enforce them consistently; any sign of inconsistency only confuses the child and encourages him or her to "see what they can get away with."

• Make the punishment fit the crime.

Corporal punishment is, ineffect, a physical attack on the child, Love said. If you want your child to learn constructive, nonviolent ways to resolve conflict, a spanking sends the wrong message. Instead, take away privileges and institute mandatory quiet times in a corner or a room. Find out what's important to your child — a favorite toy or a dessert — and take it away for misbehavior. And, again, be consistent.

• Monitor and control access to the media.

This includes TV and movies, video games, certain types of music and the internet. Not all TV is bad, obviously, and the Internet offers an unprecedented bounty of educational materials at a single keystroke.

But kids who spend too much time in front of the tube or computer screen are missing out on sports, socialization, reading and other simple but beneficial pleasures. Limit the child's amount of time with passive distractions like TV and encourage them to play creatively, read, draw or simply have a conversation.

• Encourage reading.

Read to the little ones, and keep plenty of age-appropriate books on hand for older kids. Give them books that promote good behavior and engage the intellect at the same time.

But avoid books with "goody-two-shoes" characters and mawkish, heavy-handed messages. Today's kids are sophisticated and want believable characters and situations with which they can identify.

• Open the lines of communication.

Most children crave adult attention — even teenagers, although they may pretend they couldn't care less. So pay attention to them. Talk to them and, more importantly, listen to them.

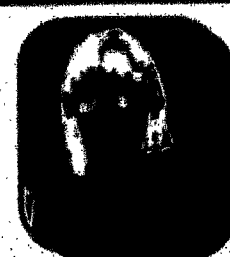

Teach them to resolve conflicts and disputes at school without resorting to violence. Explain the violent scene they've just witnessed on a TV show and its potential consequences.

Even fairy tales need a little clarification now and then — after all, Goldilocks, adorable as she may be, was trespassing illegally in the Three Bears' home. That's asking for trouble.

Finally, don't give up hope on the next generation. Contrary to what you see on TV, most kids are not shooting and stabbing their classmates and never will.

"According to the latest research, crime is down in America and school crime is down, too. However, the news media's coverage of crime is up," Love said. "One-half of TV coverage about America's youth deals with violence."

You rarely hear about the good children, yet there are so many good children out there. We need to focus on the positive things, and positive things, I believe, will then happen."

USM unveils $600,000 satellite uplink truck

The University of Southern Mississippi unveiled its new $600,000 satellite uplink/production truck, which will be used to beam USM sports highlights and educational programs to a variety of faraway sites.

"We are already finalizing post-game football highlight uplinks that will include coach Jeff Bower's post-game comments," said Dennis Webster, director of USM Broadcasting and Media Production Services, operator of the Southern Miss mobile system.

"We are also planning to uplink all 11 Bower Shows on Sundays at 11 a.m.," he added, noting Network Teleport of New Orleans has been chosen as broker to help arrange transponder time and outside contract uplink work.

Webster said the self-contained system, with modest production/origination facilities, also will allow the university to present educational programs in Mississippi and contribute instructional materials to national programs.

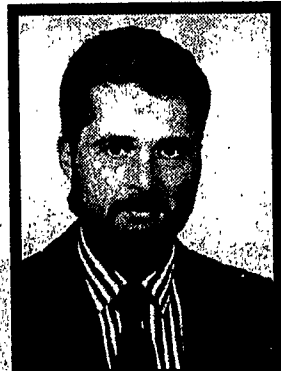

He said the truck also will be made available for support of selected non-university activities through the scheduling office at Southern Miss Broadcasting and Media Production Services. Dr. Lynda Gilbert, USM vice president for business and finance, has ultimate management responsibility for the truck.

"This is a unique combination of a good-sized production vehicle with an uplink," said Kevin McDuff of Mobile, Ala., a 1982 USM graduate who, as vice president of sales for C&G Video Systems in Spanish Fort, Ala., helped design the truck's video system.

The vehicle was donated to the university by the USM Foundation, which paid $300,000 of the total cost.

The USM Alumni Association contributed $100,000; Jackson businessman Jim Payne contributed $100,000; and an anonymous donor contributed $100,000.

Lynda Hancock started Hancock Auto Annex with her husband, Scott and her father-in-law James Hancock. The business is three and a half years old and going strong.

At Hancock Auto Annex, Lynda wears many hats. She sells the cars, handles the titles and is the office manager. At times, she has even gone to the auctions to purchase the cars for the lot. She has learned the business by experience.

Hancock Auto Annex sells late model, previously owned cars. The cars are high quality and reasonably priced.

Hancock Auto Annex is a member of Coast Chamber, M.I.A.D.A., the Long Beach Business Association and Better Business Bureau.

With Lynda's busy life, she still finds time for relaxation. Her hobbies are boating, fishing, and shopping. She also has two years of college behind her. She also stays busy with her one and a half year old daughter, Hannah.

Lynda's hopes for the future are to keep the business growing, to stay successful and keep her customers happy.

"Airplanes in a video store?" "It all makes sense when you visit Windsock Video," says owner Karen Gravois, "due to my love of flying." "When my former partner and I opened five and a half years ago we wanted the store to reflect our personalities!" Along with a courteous staff and shelves of new releases, customers can find replicas of B-24's, Apache helicopters and WWI Bi-planes. "I think this helps us create our own identity," Karen added, "along with other features which separate us from our competition which include video reservations by phone, free children's rental on Wednesdays, and other in-store specials." Windsock Video is located at the Marketown Shopping Center, on Hwy. 90 and is open 10 to 10, seven days a week.

La Boutique is a charming specialty store located at 177 Teagarden Road in Gulfport. The unique shop has a choice selection of clothes, jewelry and accessories suitable for play to party.

Owner Carol Etno realizes the importance of education. She attended Augustana College in Rock Island, IL and Bryant College, Providence, RI. She worked as a secretary to the production manager of Newsweek magazine and later held a position in the buying office of the Belk stores throughout the U.S.

This experience gave Carol the necessary impetus to take the lead in a new endeavor, to open her own specialty shop, La Boutique at the Edgewater Gulf Hotel. Many years were at the hotel until it was demolished to make room for Edgewater Mall. After 30 years in the mall, Carol moved her store to 177 Teagarden Road in Gulfport.

Although the hours are long with little time off, both Carol and Rose Loughry, her employee of 28 years, are dedicated to their work and enjoy every moment. Carol is fortunate to have her daughter Patti working with her. Patti has over 10 years experience as a buyer, vice president and manager for the Lester Melnick stores in Texas. Stop in and visit La Boutique, 9:30-5:30 daily except Sunday.

August designated Child Support Awareness

August 1996 has been proclaimed Child Support Awareness Month. The Division of Child Support Enforcement, Mississippi Department of Human Services continues to make a difference in the lives of children in Mississippi and the nation. The Division provides services to 392,876 children in 296,807 cases across the state.

The Division is progressing and proud to announce total collections for State Fiscal Year (SFY) 1996 at $145,191,819.08! This is an increase of $16.5 million more than SFY 1995. In SFY 1996, the Division intercepted State and Federal Tax returns totaling $16,753,451.36. Welfare Reform and other legislative changes enabled the Division to take proactive measures to ensure that the responsibility of supporting the children rest with both parents; children deserve psychological, medical, emotional and financial support.

The Division is obligated legally and morally to ensure that all children are afforded these fundamental needs from their parents. For more information concerning Child Support Enforcement, call (601) 713-2945 or 1-800-648-4010. Please join the Division in celebrating August 1996, as Child Support Awareness Month. "Child support is love support; for your child's sake, just pay!"

Author Martin Hegwood scheduled at Bookends

Mississippi author Martin Hegwood will be hosted by Bookends Bookstore, 111 Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis in celebration of his latest book, Big Easy Backroad (St. Martin's $22.95).

The first in a series of mysteries starring Jack Delmas, freelance investigator, and his hometown, Bay St. Louis, has it all -- bodies, old foes, new sleazeballs, drug kingpins and the Dixie Mafia and Old Highway 90, the Big Easy Backroad.

Hegwood, the senior attorney for the Mississippi Secretary of State's office, has learned his craft well from the classic hard-boiled mystery writers.

This is an action-packed trip through the shadowy underworld of New Orleans and the Gulf Coast, captured in all its seedy splendor.

Hegwood will be at Book-ends 5:30-7:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 13. He will give an interview on WLOX earlier that day.

For information or to reserve a copy, call Bookends at 467-9623.

Hot gumbo and cold Dixie beer will be served.

St. Stanislaus grad displays work

Photographer James W. de Buys know the Coast intimately and that knowledge is obvious in his latest collection of work, "Coasting." The series of black and white photographs capture nuances of light, shadow and texture that are rarely discernable to the casual observer. An ordinary sea oat explodes with action against a serene sky in one piece; in another, a ramshackle pier seems to transform into a thrilling roller-coaster ride. All the works feature an uncommon look at a shoreline that residents often take for granted.

A graduate of St. Stanislaus, de Buys spent much of his time as a youth close to the water. "My favorite place on the Stanislaus campus was at the end of the pier. I'd sit for hours gazing out to sea. I have great memories of my childhood here." He grins. "In fact, my younger brother and I have the distinction of being the first kids to ride our bikes across the new Bay bridge on opening day. I've lived many places, but am always drawn back to the beauty of the Coast."

In addition to his landscapes, de Buys is well known for his photographs of New Orleans musicians and scenes, but this will be his first show focusing entirely on the landscape of the Coast. "The more I shot, the more I saw to shoot," he says. Getting up at dawn and working into the evening, he partrolled the Coast, walking miles of beach, wading out into the water to catch just the right exposure.

graphers prefer to work in color, de Buys says he enjoys shooting black and white because it essentializes the photographic process. He points out that color is a luxury that can often distract from the essential elements of an image. "Shots in black and white are like the everyday clothes we wear. Color is more like ballroom finery - it can be dazzling but it can overpower the person wearing it."

The entire collection of work will be on display through September 12 at Quarter Moon Gallery, 146 Main Street, in Bay St. Louis. The opening reception will take place on August 14, from 5-8pm during the 2nd Saturday Artwalk, with de Buys present to discuss techniques and answer questions. For more information, contact Ellis Anderson at (228) 467-7279.

Williams family perished at historic church

(This is the fourth in a series of eight stories tracing the death and destruction caused by Hurricane Camille on the Mississippi Gulf Coast in 1969.)

The stories are based on interviews conducted with survivors a decade after the storm by the University of Southern Mississippi Oral History Program, currently directed by Dr. Charles Bolton. The interviewer was R. Wayne Pyle of USM.)

By Phil Hearn

PASS CHRISTIAN -- Paul Williams wanted to find a quiet place, somewhere he and 16 other family members could ride out the approaching storm in peace and safety.

An adjacent auditorium of Pass Christian's historic Trinity Episcopal Church, where Williams served as sexton, seemed like an ideal place for refuge. The church had weathered 18 hurricanes since its construction in 1849.

So, after getting permission from the church rector, the Rev. Durrie Harding, Williams moved into the church auditorium that Sunday evening, Aug. 17, 1969, with his wife, 11 children, three grandchildren and one son-in-law.

Williams, nearly 50 at the time, a black hard-working son of an itinerant wood-cutter, had lived through the Gulf Coast hurricane of 1947 and Hurricane Betsy in 1965. How was he to know that Hurricane Camille—then zeroing in on Pass Christian with 20-plus mile an hour winds and 30-foot tidal waves—would demolish the old church and with it, his family?

The caretaker, a native of Lula, Miss., survived the ordeal that followed that night, along with one son and his son-in-law. His wife, 10 children and three grandchildren perished in the carnage of Camille.

In an interview with the University of Southern Mississippi's Oral History Program 13 years later, Williams described the night of death and destruction:

"We took us some food, and we was in the auditorium. We kind of got there late, so we all bedded down. I hooked up the TV and got that going—the radio (too) so we'd know what they were saying (about the storm)..."

"A little later on, the children—oh, they were having so much fun. Oh, it was just unbelievable..."

"And so I said, 'Ya'll come here, I want to tell you something.' They didn't want to listen—just kept on ripping around and tearing. So I said, 'Hear this! Now, if the water come in here, we will go upstairs'..."

"And sure enough, just about when I was trying the sleep, my son-in-law come and said, 'Pa, Pa, the water is coming in!'"

As the water flooded into the church auditorium about 10:30 p.m., Williams began moving his family up a 12-foot, pull-down ladder to an attic ordinarily used for storage. But the water kept rising as Camille's devastating winds battered the old church, the more modern auditorium and nearby rectory.

Williams continued: "The water come on in the building and the building was so tight, it come on in upstairs and started tumbling over stuff. Some of my children said, 'Daddy, Daddy, what are we going to do?'"

As he attempted to climb the ladder to join his family in the attic, the wind and water took over.

"All I remember is hearing the boards crack, that's all I remember. I had done flew through the air...and I went down in the water."

Grabbing hold of a passing tree, Williams was swept into the adjacent Live Oak Cemetery, where he found refuge in the fork of a standing tree amid the swirling waters, mounting debris, toppled tombstones and unearthed coffins that regurgitated from freshly dug, inundated graves.

"When that church went down, it washed all of them out there into the cemetery," remembered Pass Christian resident Fred DeMetz, then a 66-year-old retired carpenter who was struggling to survive the storm's fury with his family at a nearby residence.

"The helpless part was to know that these people back there in the cemetery were being washed through there hollering...and you couldn't help. There was no way in the world to go help them, with the water washing all over," DeMetz recalled in a 1979 interview, prior to his death in 1982.

The next morning, as rescue workers moved in, Williams and the other two family survivors began the grisly task of recovering the bodies of their loved ones.

"And my son (Malcolm), he didn't want me to see my wife because he said, 'Daddy, Mama got her neck broke. We don't want you to see her.' And so, I didn't see her—and I guess maybe it was good that I didn't. I don't know," Williams said.

Jerry Peralta, Pass Christian police chief at the time, remembered watching the recovery of bodies at Live Oak Cemetery.

"The thing that hurt me most, like I say, was the man (Williams) with his family, because I watched him carrying (the bodies). He carried them out of the cemetery and laid them right on the sidewalk," said Peralta, who also was interviewed prior to his death in 1982.

The church rectory was destroyed, claiming the life of the pastor's wife, Helen Harding.

Williams died of cancer on Oct. 11, 1998, at the age of 79. When he was interviewed in 1979, however, the agony of that summer night in 1969 was still firmly etched in his memory:

"This is a painful thing, what I lost. It is real painful, and I just have to go around and hold tight and do the best I can. But God knows, I miss them so much. I wish they were here."

(Phil Hearn is a former longtime Mississippi newspaper reporter and editor who worked for United Press International from 1968 to 1980.)

A Laurel native, he has served since 1984 as assistant public relations director for news services at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg.)

Hurricane telephone preparedness tips

Hurricane season has arrived, and by all predictions the 1999 season will feature several severe storms. Advance preparation is one of the best ways to ensure your safety and the safety of your loved ones during a hurricane.

During a hurricane and immediately following wireless phones are often the only type of telephone communication available.

During hurricane season, Cellular South reminds you to include these wireless preparedness tips in your safety plan.

Before a hurricane strikes

1. Check your wireless phone to make sure it is operational.

2. Make sure your battery is charged and that you have a spare on hand.

3. Locate your car lighter charger in case of loss of electricity.

4. Program phone numbers for family, friends and emergency personnel into wireless phone memory for ease of dialing during crisis situation.

5. Develop a calling network with family and friends that can be implemented in the event of an emergency and so that they will now you are safe. Make sure family and friends have wireless phone number.

Rare and valuable slave certificates discovered in Mississippi courthouses

A volume containing rare and historically significant slave certificates from the period 1856-61 was discovered recently in the Adams County Courthouse, Natchez. The volume had been rebound sometime during the twentieth century and was labeled "Record Book Adams County." The book also contained scattered minutes of the justice court from 1865 to 1870. The slave certificates and minutes are now available on microfilm at the Mississippi Department of Archives and History in Jackson.

According to Anne Webster, head reference librarian at the Archives, the slave certificates will be a tremendous resource for genealogists and historians. "It is very rare to find documentation of this sort from such an early time period. These records include surnames, and in many cases the slaves are listed in family groups. Using this information, genealogists may be able to determine the slaves' previous owners, thus tracing their families back another generation." Webster also noted that the records identify the slave traders and the state and county from which each slave was brought to Natchez. "Historians may be able to draw some conclusions about trade routes between Kentucky - where most of these slaves were moved from - and Mississippi," Webster explains.

The slave certificates were discovered by Adams County chancery clerk Thomas O'Beirne during an inventory of the records stored in the courthouse. The inventory is being conducted as part of a pilot project undertaken by the Department of Archives and History, in cooperation with the City of Natchez and Adams County, to determine how best to implement a comprehensive records management and archives program for municipalities and counties in Mississippi.

The records management pilot project is being conducted by the Local Government Records Office at the Department of Archives and History. The Local Government Records Program was established in 1996 by the Mississippi Legislature in an effort to address the difficulties faced by county and municipal governments throughout the state in the maintenance of records. Counties that have elected to participate in the program charge a $1.00 filing fee, half of which is deposited in the Local Government Records Office fund at the Department of Archives and History to support the statewide program and half of which is retained by the county to cover records management expenses.

Bill Hanna, director of the Local Government Records Program, works with participating local governments to address their records management problems. According to Hanna, courthouses and city halls throughout the state are overflowing with records. Many of these records do not have long-term value and should be disposed of, but others are priceless historical resources.

For more information on the slave certificates, please call the Reference Desk at the Department of Archives and History, (601) 359-6876. For more information on the Local Government Records Program, please call Bill Hanna, director, Local Government Records Office, (601) 359-6894.

Additional cash payments for struggling hog farmers

Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director David Warrington this week announced Mississippi hog farmers will begin to receive additional cash assistance as early as August.

"The farm crisis has been devastating for Mississippi's hog farmers and this assistance is truly needed," said Warrington.

"USDA made $50 million in payments to hog farmers earlier this year, but with hog prices at the lowest they have been in 50 years, more help is needed."

Sign-up for the new round of assistance began Aug. 9 and will end Sept. 24, 1999. Hog farmers who received the earlier payments will automatically receive the new payment in August, and are not required to reapply or fill out additional paperwork.

Eligible producers will receive $10 per slaughter-weight hog marketed during the last six months of 1998 on up to 500 market hogs (or an equivalent number of feeder pigs or other swine).

Hog farm operators who received payments under the earlier disbursement will receive a pro-rated amount to bring their total payment amount to $10 per slaughter-weight hog or equivalent.

Producers qualify for payment if their hog operation marketed fewer than 2,500 hogs during the last six months of 1998 and is still in operation.

For information about this program, contact your local FSA office.

Franckiewicz named president and CEO

The Bureau of Governmental Research (BGR) announced the appointment of Victor J. Franckiewicz, Jr. as president and CEO.

"Victor Franckiewicz has qualifications and experience that are especially compatible with BGR's mission to encourage informed public-policy making and the effective use of public resources in the New Orleans metropolitan area," said George H. Porter III, MD, BGR chairman, in making the announcement.

"His background in administration, planning, research and government service certainly equip him for the leadership of BGR."

Franckiewicz will assume his duties in September. He succeeds James Brandt, who is currently president and CEO of the Public Affairs Research Council in Baton Rouge. Franckiewicz was selected after a national search chaired by BGR board member Norma Freiberg.

Franckiewicz has been a practicing attorney in New Orleans and on the Mississippi Gulf Coast for the past six years. He served as a Mississippi State Senator from 1989 to 1993 and as mayor of Bay St. Louis from 1985-1989. From 1981 to 1985 Franckiewicz was supervisor of long-range planning at what is now Lockheed Martin.

Franckiewicz's other experience includes serving as interim city manager of Picayune; special coordinator for the director of the Mississippi Coastal Program; and planning work with the Gulf Regional Planning Commission. He holds a bachelor of science and a master's degree in city planning from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He received his law degree from Loyola University School of Law in New Orleans.

BGR is a private, nonpartisan, nonprofit, citizen-supported research organization founded in 1932.

Bank announces assistant sales manager promotions

Whitney National Bank announced the promotion of Regina W. Burrus to assistant sales manager at the Harrison Central Branch, Hwy. 49 in Gulfport. Burrus has recently rejoined Whitney with 20 years banking experience with the former Merchants Bank and Trust.

She is a native of Gulfport, married for 20 years to Douglas Burrus and has two children.

As assistant sales manager, she will be responsible for all branch operations in the Gulfport/Orange Grove area.

Karen N. Dysart has been promoted to assistant sales manager for the Gulfport branch at 1300 25th Avenue. Dysart has 12 years of banking experience with an extensive background in loan operations and documentation, as well as branch operations.

She will be responsible for all branch operations and sales and service initiatives.

Dysart also has eight years of service with the United States Naval Reserve Force. During her tenure with the Naval Reserve, the unit earned the Mayfield Award, a Best of Type honor three times and the National Defense Medal.

Dysart received two Naval Commendation Letters for outstanding personal performance and two Good Conduct Medals. She also is a senior green belt in Taekwondo and the co-captain of a women's volleyball team. Dysart and her husband, Howard, of 21 years have two sons.

Whitney Holding Corporation, through its principal subsidiary Whitney National Bank, has approximately 120 banking locations in the four-state Gulf Coast region, including southern Louisiana, the coastal region of Mississippi, Central and South Alabama and the Pensacola area of Florida.

The Whitney, which has been in continuous operation since 1883, currently has assets of approximately $5.2 billion.

On Wednesday, there was no power, and Gauthreaux said she let the staff go, and was working out of her house. She said she hoped service would be restored by noon Wednesday or by the latest, on Thursday.

Visitors to the office were advised by a posted sign that the office hoped to reopen on Thursday. They were advised to call the District's regular phone number, and an answering service was taking calls.

Gauthreaux said the lift station that was affected services businesses recently hooked up off Hwy. 90 and McLaurin, but there was no immediate problem with sewerage backing up.

"Fortunately, we were pumped down enough that we don't have a problem," she said.

She said there was a problem within the Civic Center. "When the Health Department flushes the toilets, it is backing up into our building," she said.

It was business as usual Wednesday when the Echo visited other offices located in the adjacent Human Resources Building. The Mississippi Department of Health had electricity and air conditioning, along with the Cooperative Extension Service, the Employment Security Office, Social Services and Human Resources.

bears the names of all the victims. A color guard will salute them, their names will be read aloud by selected officials and fellow members, and "Taps" will be played. Included in the crowd will be one survivor who lost 13 members of his family in the storm. It was 30 years ago, shortly after 10 p.m. on Aug. 17, 1969, that Camille drove fiercely into the Bay of St. Louis, carrying winds in excess of 225 miles per hour and tidal surges up to 30 feet high.

The unbridled action ravished the land, homes and buildings, and left 78 dead in Pass Christian.

The devastation led then Mayor J.J. Wittman to observe. "I am mayor of a city, but in name only."

Growers target cotton's No. 1 pests

By Linda Breazeale
MSU Ag Communications
Growers are hoping Mississippi children are experiencing the last chances to see boll weevils in their natural habitat as eradication efforts begin in the North Delta.

Growers across the nation's Southeast have been chipping away at boll weevil strongholds since the early '80's. Eradication efforts that began in Virginia and the Carolinas have continued successfully across Georgia, Florida, Alabama and into Tennessee and Mississippi. Separate efforts are underway in Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

"Most of the boll weevils in Mississippi have come from surrounding infestations, like in Tennessee," said Dr. Mike Williams, an entomologist with Mississippi State University's Extension Service.

Farrell Boyd, manager of the Mississippi Bill Weevil Eradication Program, said the first boll weevil diapause sprays will take place in Region I (North Delta) counties the first week of August. Diapause is the stage in the fall when weevils begin to prepare for overwintering.

Concentrated diapause spray efforts aim to significantly decrease the number of weevils surviving the winter for emergence in the following growing season.

The state is divided into four eradication regions. Region I A and B includes Tunica, Quitman, Coahoma, Bolivar, Washington, Sunflower, Leflore and western Tallahatchie counties.

Region II, which basically includes Issaquena, Sharkey, Humphreys and part of Yazoo counties, entered the program last fall. The rest of the state, Regions II and IV, started fall diapause efforts in 1997.

Initial fall diapause sprays take place three times, five days apart, then expanding to seven days apart, and later in 10- to 14-day cycles, depending on temperatures.

Summertime and the living is easy, especially when the man of the house does the grilling. But if your man isn't a careful cook, he could make life miserable by causing a food-borne illness.

A recent study by the American Dietetic Association, its Foundation and the ConAgra Foundation found that most men admit they handle food improperly when cooking outdoors. Men often use the same plate and grilling utensils when handling raw and cooked meats, without washing in between. Cross-contamination of cooked foods with juices from raw meats is one of the most common causes of food poisoning.

Another common cause is cooking meats to a temperature that is too low. Almost 90 percent of people in the survey confessed that they do not use a meat thermometer to check for doneness of grilling favorites like chicken, hamburger and steak.

Here are some grilling tips from the American Dietetic Association.

- Wash hands with warm soapy water before and during food preparation. Proper hand washing may eliminate nearly half of all cases of food-borne illness. Bacteria can easily be transferred from the body to foods and surfaces. Always wash your hands thoroughly, especially when switching tasks such as from handling raw meats to vegetables.

- Wash plates between uses, or use separate plates: one for holding raw meat, poultry and seafood; another for cooked foods. The juices from raw meats and poultry aren't always easy to contain. They tend to spill over and leak on foods and surfaces. Because these juices may carry harmful bacteria, using separate plates will help prevent contamination.

- Clean grilling utensils after touching raw meats and before touching cooked foods to prevent cross-contamination. After using knives, grilling tongs or forks to touch raw meats and poultry, clean thoroughly with hot soapy water. If this is too much hassle, use two sets of utensils: one for raw meats and the other for cooked.

- Scrub the grill with hot soapy water before cooking. Put a little elbow grease into cleaning to kill any bacteria lingering.

- Use a meat thermometer to check the doneness of meats and poultry. Relying on color alone to check the doneness of meat isn't the best technique. A meat thermometer is the only way to ensure food has been cooked properly. Favorites like steak should be cooked to at least 145 degrees Fahrenheit, hamburgers should be cooked to at least 160, and chicken should be cooked to at least 170.

- Promptly refrigerate any leftovers to below 40 degrees. Food should not be left in the danger zone, between 40 and 140 degrees, for more than two hours. That includes preparation and serving time.

Bay St. Louis girls' team wins division, goes to regional

The division champion Bay St. Louis Girl's Little League Fast Pitch Softball Senior League is representing seven states this week in regional tournament play.

The team, made up of 14-16-year-olds, last week in dramatic play defeated the Columbus, Ga. team to capture the title at the Southeast Division II Tournament at Talladega, Ala.

Team Manager Frank Yanok said that the team, after falling behind 3-0 after two innings, tied the game 3-3 in the fourth inning.

In the fifth inning, Bay St.

Louis pulled ahead 5-3, and in the bottom of the seventh, Emily Meyers drove in Brittany Ladner for the Senior League championship.

The girls now face teams from Texas, Florida and South Carolina, representing the entire second division, which includes Mississippi, Arkansas, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, Kentucky and Louisiana.

The regional tournament is on-going this week at Jeffersonton Ky. The tournament champions will forge ahead to the Senior League World Series.

The Bay team includes Emily Meyers, Kacey Koenenn, Silver Armstrong, Theresa Fuller, Amanda Graham, Jessika Jones, Dana Kimmel, Echo Myers, Denise Dickinson, Christen Hartley, Brittany Ladner and Kristy Sand.

Coaches include Lianne Sand and Erica Schwartz.

In an update, the team was eliminated from the tournament by a loss 13-3 against the Oveido Florida team and then a loss Wednesday night against the Davies County North Carolina team.

Fire Dogs steal Rocky Mountain's Thunder 35-28

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Mississippi Fire Dogs will enter the 1999 IPFL playoffs with a 13-5 record after a 35-28 victory over the Rocky Mountain Thunder in front of 6000 fans at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum on Saturday, August 7th.

The victory gives the Fire Dogs a regular season record of 9-7 and some momentum entering the playoffs. If Mississippi defeats the Hammerheads in Hawaii, the Fire Dogs will tangle with the Texas Terminators for the league championship.

Team owner Donald Rafferty commented about the team, "Every team in this league plays strong at home, so it will be a tough game against Hawaii. However, this team has played outstanding under some very difficult circumstances. They have reached every goal that they have set for themselves. Plus, our fan support in our first year has been outstanding and instrumental in our success."

Mississippi didn't waste time getting on the scoreboard. Quarterback John Fourcade connected with wideout Nicky Seymour three times on the four play drive. The final pass of the drive was a 10 yard scoring strike to Seymour at the 10:50 mark of the first quarter. Shawn Hale nailed the PAT to make the score 7-0.

However, the Thunder charged right back and tied the game up on their first possession. The Thunder used an effective running game to move the chains down the field.

Darnell Brooks rushed five times on a six play drive that resulted in Brooks scoring from two yards out.

The PAT by the Thunder was good and with 5:35 remaining in the opening period the score was tied 7-7.

Fourcade led his troops back down the field in a hurry to regain the lead. The Fire Dogs needed only five plays to strike paydirt. Running back Hank Martinez of Bay St. Louis dove over the top to score from one yard out with 2:56 left in the first half. Hale connected on the PAT giving the Fire Dogs a 14-7 lead.

The Thunder's offense went sour on the next possession as they resorted to attempting a 33 yard field goal that missed wide left.

The Fire Dogs got the ball back and stormed down the field on their third possession. Fourcade connected with Seymour for an 18-yard gain down to midfield.

Chris Trice carried the ball down to the Thunder five yardline on the next play.

Fourcade and Seymour hooked up for their second touchdown of the night on a five yard pass with 11:41 left in the first half.

Hale made good on the PAT giving Mississippi a 21-7 lead.

The woes continued for the Thunder as they were intercepted on a deep pass in the endzone by Fire Dog defensive back Edsel Lang on the second play of their drive.

But, the Fire Dog offense stalled on the next possession and Hale missed a 32 yard field goal attempt giving the ball back to the Thunder on their own five yard line.

The Thunder were still unable to move the ball against the Fire Dog defense led by Tim Bell, Reggie Myles, and Hancock County native Bobby Doyle. Doyle had three consecutive stops for the Dog defense.

After a missed 48 yard field goal attempt, the Fire Dogs got the ball back their own five yardline.

Waveland resident Stu Rayburn took over for Fourcade as the quarterback. Rayburn wasted no time in letting the Thunder know that he wanted to score.

Rayburn marched the Fire Dogs down the field connecting with wideout Martino Dias three times on the seven play drive.

The final pass of the drive was a seven yard touchdown pass to Dias with :31 left in the first half. Hale connected on the PAT to make the score 28-7.

With the final :30 of the first half before them, the Thunder got to work in a hurry to score before the half was over.

They used short passes combined with the hard running of Brooks to move them down the field in a hurry.

The Thunder scored on a seven yard pass as time expired but the PAT hit the upright leaving the score at 28-13.

The third quarter was a combination of errors for both teams as they swapped possession on miscues.

The Thunder fumbled the ball on the second play of the opening drive and Tim Bell recovered the loose ball for Mississippi.

However, on the very next play the Fire Dogs were intercepted on a forced pass by Rayburn.

The Fire Dog defense came back and put the pressure on the Thunder quarterback who fumbled on the second play of the drive and Doyle recovered the loose ball for Mississippi.

The Fire Dogs held on to the ball during their possession but were unable to move the chains and settled for a long field goal attempt that was no good giving the ball back to the Thunder who returned the ball back to the Mississippi 20 yardline.

The Thunder took just three plays before they put some more points on the board. The Thunder made good on an 18 yard field goal with 4:31 left to play in the third quarter. The kick made the score 28-15.

Rayburn came back and moved his troops down the field in a hurry. Rayburn followed a crushing block by wideout Seymour and scored from four yards out with 3:15 left to play in the third quarter. Hale made good on the PAT and the score was 35-15.

The Thunder came back on their next possession and put points on the board in just three plays from scrimmage. Joe Sanders scored on an eight yard pass with 11:43 left to play in the game to make the score 35-21. The PAT missed.

The Fire Dogs missed field goals on their next two possessions to keep the Thunder within striking distance.

With 1:19 left to play in the game, the Thunder inched closer to tying the game. Sanders was the recipient of a 15 yard touchdown pass for the Thunder. The PAT was good making the score 35-28.

The Thunder attempted an onside kick that was recovered by Mississippi; however, the Fire Dogs eventually fumbled back to the Thunder deep in Mississippi territory.

The Fire Dog defense stiffened at midfield where Clarence Robinson forced a fumble that was recovered by the Fire Dogs to end the Thunder threat and the game.

Hank Martinez commented on the club's upcoming playoff game against the Hammerheads of Hawaii, "We have the team to beat them. Our defense is very tough and will have to give us some chances. But, going into the playoff game with a win is a big plus. We are looking forward to the challenge."

Stu Rayburn looked forward to the matchup with Hawaii, "We need to get refocused. We wanted to get a win tonight but it is tough to get up for a game when you know that you are already in the playoffs. However, a lot of our younger players got a lot of needed reps tonight. That will be a big plus for us in case the injury bug hits us."

"Now, we will have to hit the practice field hard this week and concentrate on Hawaii. It will be a tough matchup."

The Fire Dogs ended their inaugural regular season with a 9-7 record and head into the first round of the IPFL playoffs against Hawaii this weekend.

Swamping is chief cause of boat sinkings, study finds Swamping -- taking waves over the sides or back of the boat -- caused 30 percent of all boat sinkings on the open water, according to a recent study by BOAT/U.S. Marine Insurance.

Through hull leaks -- including stuffing boxes, bait well discharge, and knotmeter plugs -- caused 18 percent of open-water sinkings. Raw water cooling system and exhaust leaks were responsible for 12 percent of the sinkings, and missing drain plugs another 12 percent.

Boat groundings because of navigational errors were responsible for 10 percent of the sinkings, and six percent of boats sank because their hulls split open when they slammed into waves or another boat's wake.

For the study, Seaworthy, a newsletter published by the BOAT/U.S. Marine Insurance Program, examined 50 claims filed for boats that sank underway, ranging from a 54-foot ocean-going sailboat to a tiny personal watercraft. None of the sinkings involved fatalities.

Seaworthy also found that for every boat that sinks underway, four boats sink at the dock. "More boats sink at the dock because boats tend to spend a majority of their time at the dock," said Bob Adriance, BOAT/U.S. technical services director, who conducted the study.

"When a boat leaves the dock, someone is aboard. Therefore, a leak is usually discovered and fixed before it sinks the boat."

Adriance said that transom height -- the height of the boat in the stern -- is the single most critical reason boats are flooded in open water. "Out of the 15 boats in our sample group that were swamped, 13 were powered by outboard motors, with engine cutouts only inches above the water," he said.

People with low-transomed boats should be very conscious of weight distribution on the boat, and avoid storing heavy items like scuba tanks or ice chests loaded with drinks in the stern. It's also important to make sure the cockpit drains are open, not plugged with leaves and other debris.

Seaworthy has just published a free brochure, "Why Boats Sink (And How to Keep Them Afloat)," available by calling 1-800-274-4877 or online at www.boatus.com.

With more than 500,000 members, BOAT/U.S. is the nation's largest organization of recreational boaters.

Bryce Fernandez of Tennessee reeled in this one-and-a-half-pound flounder while fishing in Bay St. Louis. The young angler and his sister Courtney spent several days fishing and crabbing in the Bay during their vacation.

Hankins continues to roll at Sun Coast

Rickey Hankins continues his winning ways at Sun Coast Speedway, although the competition has narrowed his margin of victory. Hankins swept the field by winning both the Late Model heat and feature race Saturday night, but he did have a couple of anxious moments with Jamie Luzenburg and Trevor Boyd.

Hankins shared the front row with Luzenburg for the start of the feature race, which took several attempts as the two made contact coming out of four for the start.

A couple of other cards were also involved in the contact, but Luzenburg suffered the most damage, although he was able to continue.

Luzenburg was running a strong second until a lap car crossed up in turn four almost collecting up Hankins before Luzenburg was left with no place to go. The resulting damage was too much for Luzenburg to be able to continue, and he retired for the night.

This moved Trevor Boyd into the second spot with Bubba Schonewitz in third. Boyd made contact with Hankins in turn two, but Hankins was able to hang on to the top spot and moved out to a comfortable lead.

Schonewitz was charged with a caution and sent to the rear moving Keith Rolston into the third spot followed by Jamie Odom. This was the order of finish as they took the checkers.

Mike Ladner added another win to his list of Pro Stock feature wins as he started from the inside front row for a flag-to-flag run. Randy Eaton gave chase but was unable to mount a serious challenge as Ladner moved to a comfortable lead.

Eaton managed to hold off Jeremy Broadus and Bill Stewart to secure the second spot as the checkers flew. Rodney Bruce and Jeremy Eaton both won earlier heat races.

Donald Parker, last week's winner, managed to slip past Wallace Allen, who held the early lead in the IMCA feature to make it two in a row. Parker and Allen went wheel to wheel for several laps before Parker was able to move by on the low side in turn three, and was never headed on his way to the checkers.

Ben Stephens finished second after Allen was charged with a caution. Heat winner Ron Tubbs finished third.

Michael Williams got the jump on Lonnie Scarbrough on the start of the Street Stock feature and went on a green-to-checkers run for the win. Scarbrough was able to hold off Billy Riela and Rodney Barber to finish in the second spot. David Hough won the heat race in this division.

Roger Ladner won both heat and feature races in the Rookie division. Larry Bodie and Steven Cruthrds rounded out the top three.

Panel to review snapper criterion

The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council will convene its Special Ad Hoc Bycatch Reduction Device Advisory Panel (SBAP) to review the bycatch reduction criterion for red snapper that was established for bycatch reduction devices (BRDs) in "Amendment 9 to the Fishery Management Plan for the Shrimp Fishery of the Gulf of Mexico, U.S. Waters with Supplemental Environmental Impact Statement, Regulatory Impact Review, Initial Regulatory Flexibility Analysis, and Special Impact Assessment." The SBAP will be convened at 8:30 a.m. Thursday and will conclude by 3 p.m.

The meeting will be held at the Airport Hilton Hotel, 901 Airline Highway in Kenner, La.

The meeting is open to the public and physically accessible to people with disabilities. Requests for sign language interpretation or other auxiliary aids should be directed to the Council office by Aug. 19.

The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council is one of eight regional fishery management councils that were established by the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976.

The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council prepares fishery management plans that are designed to manage fishery resources in the Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) of the U.S. Gulf of Mexico.

Stingray camper Jean Paul Richard, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Richard of New Orleans; Shark camper Brent Bergeron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Bergeron of Madisonville; Dolphin camper John Charpentier, son of Katherine Charpentier of Hammond; and Shrimp camper John Nix, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Nix of Mandeville.

Camp Stanislaus announces 1999 Character Cup winners

Camp Stanislaus recently completed its 1999 session. Conducted on the St. Stanislaus campus in Bay St. Louis, the camp hosts 175 boys from around the world for a six-week session in June and July.

As a finale the annual awards ceremony is held to recognize exceptional talent and character in each of the specific areas of camp activity.

The Brother Noel Character Cup is awarded to an outstanding camper of each of the four groups at camp -- the Shrimps, the Stingrays, the Dolphins and the Sharks.

While commending a superior attitude in athletics, academics and moral development, the cup is awarded to the camper who exemplifies such traits of character as maturity, sincerity, dependability, stability, cooperation, courage and respect.

The following boys were awarded the Brother Noel Character Cup for their respective groups: Shrimp camper John Nix, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Nix of Mandeville; Stingray camper Jean Paul Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Richard of New Orleans; Dolphin camper John Charpentier, son of Katherine Charpentier of Hammond; and Shark camper Brent Bergeron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Bergeron of Madisonville.

"We are pleased to present the Character Cup to those campers in each group, who, by vote of their counselors, teachers and the Brothers, best exemplify the qualities of young men of character," said Ted Schmidt camp director.

Camp Stanislaus, operated by the Brothers of the Sacred Heart on the campus of SSC, combines recreational activities with academic pursuits during its six-week operation each summer.

Throughout the summer the campers have the opportunity to enjoy a gamut of activities, including sailing, water skiing, rifles, fishing, canoeing, the mudslide and computer instruction, to name a few.

'Always . . . Patsy Cline' opens August 13

A funny down-to-earth musical play about the true-life friendship between Patsy Cline and Texas housewife named Louise features a live band onstage and all the Patsy Cline hits plus a few surprises.

Director and musical director is David Delk.

The musical is presented by Gulfport Little Theatre at Deborah Place in Gulfport off Pass Road Aug. 13 through Aug. 20.

Tickets are $8 students, $10 for seniors and $12 for adults. Call the box office at 864-7983.

Gulfport Little Theatre turns into the Grand Ole Opry as the musical takes the stage. Based on the life of Patsy Cline, the woman who epitomized country music in the late '50s and early '60s, "Always . . . Patsy Cline" is a song-filled evening of beautiful ballads, honky-tonk rave ups and an intimate and uplifting look at the life of country music's most beloved singer.

The play is a two-woman show that focuses on the unusual friendship Patsy shared with star-struck housewife Louise.

The two became pen pals up until the 1963 plane crash that claimed Cline's life.

The play's title refers to the manner in which Cline would close each of her letters: Love always . . . Patsy Cline.

The play is an intimate look at the woman behind the legend, an insider's story as only a true friend could tell it. The show will feature a live band and more than 20 country standards including Cline's hits "I Fall to Pieces," "Crazy,"

"Back in Baby's Arms" and "She's Got You."

Cast members include Tammy Turnage as Patsy Cline and Susan Smith as Louise.

Band members are Jacques Capers, piano; Todd Durbin, bass; Vicki Heidingsfelder, fiddle; Jimmy McIntyre, rhythm guitar; Glenn Martin, lead guitar and Kevin Williams, drums.

For information, call 1-800-WIN-7777.

THE RADIATORS

Friday, Aug. 20, 8 and 10 p.m.

Both shows are free to the public.

The Radiators, New Orleans' most beloved rock, rhythm and soul band are coming to the Grand Gulfport Aug. 20, 8 and 10 p.m. The Radiators' rich musical heritage and tireless devotion to spontaneous performances have established them as one of America's most enduring live acts.

Their hits include "Doctor Doctor," "Like Dreamers Do," "Papaya," "Umbilical," and "Long Hard Journey Home."

For information, call 1-800-WIN-7777.

T. G. SHEPPARD

Friday, Aug. 27, 8 and 10 p.m.

Both shows are free to the public.

T. G. Sheppard has dedicated himself to bringing his fans sold county hits. He has 17 number-one singles to his credit, including "Last Cheater's Waltz," "I Loved 'Em Every-one," and "Finally."

In 1974, Sheppard got his big break with his first single, "Devil in the Bottle" became a No. 1 hit song. He is currently working on a new album, the 25th of his professional career.

Fans can catch one of their favorite T. G. songs as well as possibly a few new ones Aug. 27, 8 and 10 p.m. at Grand Casino Gulfport.

For information, call 1-800-WIN-7777.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN:
Oh, most beautiful flower of Mount Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven. Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me here you are my Mother.

Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity. (make request)
There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee. (say three times)
Holy Mary, I place this prayer in your hands. (say three times)
Thank you for prayers answered. KM

THANKS ST. JUDE FOR PRAYERS answered.

Auditor completes Y2K report

The Office of the State Auditor has completed "A Performance Review of the Year 2000 (Y2K) Computer Problem: State and Local Government."

The report addresses state and local government responses to the Y2K computer-related challenge. If equipment and resources are not Y2K compliant, the result could make state and local governments unable to use vital information for daily activities, to fully provide services and to meet financial responsibility.

The major recommendations in this report include:

State Emergency Response Team (SERT) should be placed on standby to allow for a rapid implementation of the Mississippi Comprehensive Emergency Management Plan.

The Governor should consider declaring Monday, Jan. 3, 2000, as a state holiday in addition to or in lieu of Friday, Dec. 31, 1999.

State and local governments that have not made Y2K computer contingency programs should do so.

State citizens should be patient and prepare for Y2K as they would for an ice storm or hurricane and be prepared to be self-supportive for 7-10 days.

Legislators should be aware of the potential civil litigation related to Y2K and the Attorney General's Office should be prepared to defend the state against these lawsuits.

State and local governments should develop Y2K compliance continuation programs.

Information Technologies Services should assist state agencies in reviewing other agency relationships to help ensure Y2K compliance for state government.

If you would like to read the entire report, it can be found on web site www.osa.state.ms.us, or for a mailed copy contact Mitchell Adcock at (601) 364-2888.

Fliers not issued by DMR

The Department of Marine Resources, along with the Commission on Marine Resources, wishes to make a public announcement in response to a disturbing memo-type flier that is being circulated along the Mississippi Gulf Coast area with special emphasis in the Jones Park area (Gulfport).

The memo has NOT been issued by the DMR, and the DMR will seek the ultimate penalty for the individual(s) involved with this fraudulent act.

The Department of Marine Resources has always been committed to safe boat/water and vehicular practices. The DMR is vehemently opposed to and is intolerant of any employee using a controlled substance while operating machinery or while on duty.

Any employee guilty of operating a DMR vessel or automobile under the influence will be terminated immediately.

DMR employees undergo an intense training course in boat and water safety. During orientation sessions, new employees are educated on state and DMR policies and procedures regarding equipment usage and behavior.

"This is very disturbing for me on a personal level and for the department. We hold our employees to an extremely high standard, and we have made great strides in the last few years in making the department a more user-friendly agency."

"All it takes is one silly prank to destroy what my colleagues and I have worked so hard to build. We ask for your help in identifying this person(s) and getting this thing stopped. We encourage anyone with information about this matter to call 228-374-5000. It is a matter of public trust and safety," said E. G. Woods, DMR executive director.
